GROUNDS THIS MONTH. The battle of the Intercollegiate Football Association is already well advanced, and the skirmishes show that the three final great games will be unusually close contests, marked with a higher degree of scientific playing than even last year. There never was a season, according to general report, when the candidates for the teams were so numerous or more enthusiastic than in the season of 1888. Indeed there is a general revival of interest in the game, and it its decorations, and soon presented its customary is not confined to the colleges and schools, as the existence of numerous football associations in and around the cities will testify. The explanation of this advance in popularity of the Rugby game is the fact that it has been elevated to a scientific plane and will now in the minds of its admirers challenge the of remarkable life and animation, and the long string science of basebril. Several notable changes have been of leg-bandaged, warmly-clad horses probably excited made in the sport this year with a view to softening its hard features, and students of the game will watch the last three contests with great interest to see whether permanent improvement has been made. Last year the championship games were played under the supervision of a referee who decided the technical points and an umpire whose duty it was to check ungentlemanly playing. In the main the plan was a success and it is being pursued this fall. Another good rule which ought to make the umpire's duties light is one which forbids rushers from extending their arms while "flocking." adopted with the hope that it would prevent rushers from holding each other, a violation of the rules which was generally the cause of the "slugging matches" in the rush line. A third new rule is one which allows "tackling" as low as the knees. The advisability of parmiting such a practice is to be questioned, but the rule is as yet in the experimental The first two rules commend themselves, but it is evident that great care must be exercised in the choice of umpires, and the mistakes made last year should not be repeated this season.

MUCH IS EXPECTED OF THE JERSEYMEN. Harvard, Princeton, the University of Pennsylvania and Wesleyan again constitute the Intercollegiate Football Association. Yale won the championship last year, with Harvard a good second. Princeton played a surprisingly poor game, while Wesleyan showed a marked improvement. It appears to be the general belief that the contest this year for first place lies between Yale and Princeton, unless Harvard improves greatly before Saturday, when she Yale is doing good work, but meets Princeton. she has not retained so many old players as Princeton Neither are her men so strong and heavy as the Yale misses Beecher, who was the most brilliant player on the field last year, and it looks as though her men were not working with as much dence and determination as the Princeton men The Jerseymen are playing with the same vigor and desperation as the boy who was found digging for a woodchuck. "Get the woodchuck?" he exclaimed, I've got to. There ain't no meat in the house, and the minister is coming to dinner."

WHAT SAYS PRINCETON TO THIS REPORT. It is common report that unless Princeton wins the championship, or at least makes a great improvement her record last year, she is in danger of dropping out of the association. Hence the Jerseymen are determined to plant their iron beels solid Princeton's sand before the Harvard goal or saturday. Princeton will probably play the rushing and kicking game, and if her powerful rushers can and kicking game, and if her powerful rushers can break through the rushers from Cambridge and New-Haven, she may win the champlonship. Yale will do good team work, and Walter C. Camp is authority for saying that the "little men in blue" will watch their opportunities closer than their opportunities closer than their opportunities closer than their opportunities closer than their opportunities and see a sexpected. The crimson men are stocky, strong, and full of pluck. But according to reports they are not plaving with as much aggressiveness and vim as they did last year. Furthermore, they are still playing the running game which experts have confidently predicted will defeat them this year as it did in 1886 and 1887. The best authorities on the Eughy game seem to agree that a team should depend on both running and kicking, as well as on tactics.

a team should depend on both reliming and accenns, as well as on tactics.

Harvard and Princeton play at Princeton on Saturday. Harvard and Yale will close the season about the end of the month. The teams were to meet on the Polo Grounds, but the Harvard faculty has decided that the game must take place in New-Haven. Wesleyan and the University of Pennsylvania will settle the last place in the race on Thanksgiving Day morning, at the Polo Grounds. It appears to be the belief that Wesleyan will again win.

Efforts are being made to have the Yale Princeton game, scheduled to be played at the Polo Grounds on November 24, played on Thanksgiving Day, five days later. The change will probably be made.

The last football match in the series of games for the American Football Union's championship will take place on the grounds of the Crescent Athletic Club. Ninth-ave, and Ninth-st., Brooklyn, between the Crescents and the cleven of the Orange Athletic Club on Saturday.

SUNDAY BASEBALL IN THE COLD. A game of baseball was played at Ridgewood Park, seklyn, yesterday between two teams made up of Brooklyn, New-York and Brooklyn professional players. The con-test was well played and would have been highly exeiting but for the cold. About 500 people in heavy overcosts were present, and shivered like a colony with The umpire was snugly incased in a mammet the ague. The umpite was snurry incased in a mammoth ulster and the players were heavy flannels and double uniforms. Euros pitched for the Brooklyn men, but was rather wild. Miller did excellent work and was note ably supported than Burns, which caused the New-Yorkers to win rather easily. Brosnan's playing was the remarkable feature of the game. He made three hits and accepted all of the fifteen chances offered at second base. Jones also did excellent work in the field, as also did Troy and Holbert. The score was:

New-York 10, Brooklyn 3. The Boston club has offered $5,000 for the release Ward: $15,000 might be considered. The celd weather put a stop to the contemplated game at the Long Island grounds yesterday at the ending of ROBBERY FROM A CAB IN WEST-ST. A daring robbery took place in West-st. on Saturday.

Albert Friedel, a collector for Ballantine Co.'s brewery, was riding through the street in a cab. In his pockets was about $2,000. When near the corner of King at the face of a young man appeared at one of the cab windows, which had been left open. The young man stood on one of the cab steps. One arm he thrust through the window and tried to put his hand in one of Mr. Friedel's pockets. Failing in this he snatched his watch and chain, valued at $245. The collector was too much surprised to chase the thief at the time, but he was captured later by Detective Sergeants McGinnis and Keefe. He was James Silk, and he was held for trial at the feelings of dire longing and envy in the mind of the night wanderer shivering in the bleak morning wind. Among the earlier departures, A. J. Cassatt's tot of fourteen, including Bend Or, Freedom, Lady Sykes, Lady Lonsdale, Pirate, Comet, Chitabob, Pearl, Evening Star, Patti and Snap were most prominent. They were taken down to the Pennsylvania Railroad station, there to be shipped for Mr. Cassatt's stud farm at Chesterbrook. The private horse-car used by Mr. Cassatt for the transport of his animals over this line is about fifty feet long and can omfortably accommodate as many as sixteen horses The perfectly appointed carriage is partitioned off into two parts, each containing six or eight boxes arranged so that the horses on one side of the compartment shall face those on the other. Each box is supplied with every modern improvement, and the comfort of the beast is rigidly attended to. The animals are guarded night and day during a railway journey, and none but the men in charge allowed to go near them Robert Steele's lot of eight followed the Chesterbrook horses to the Pennsylvania station, whence they will be taken back to Germantown. At a few minutes after 10 C. J. Hamlin's long string of trotters, nearly all first or second prize winners, filed out of the Garden into Fourth-ave. and were taken down to the New-York Central freight station at Forty-seventh-st. for transmission to the village stock farm at Buffalo. The rules applying to the care of Mr. Cassatt's horses are strictly followed out in the case of those owned by Mr. Hamlin. The Long Island Floor Cloth's team of six heavy draught horses made a fine, if somewhat ponderous show as they strode down to Thirty-fourth-st. ferry, and E. D. Morgan's string of five were early transferred to their home at Hempstead. Frederick Gebhard's Leo was, of course, the focus of attraction when, with his stable companions, he went away to his Jerome Park quarters, and it does not need to be said that the gallant little Filemaker—who rivalled the champion's performance—lacked nothing on the score of attention. Among the many other notable strings which, one by one, bade farewell to the scene of their triumphs or failures, were those of A. B. Darling, the Caton Stock Farm, including Don Cossack—who has reason to be proud of the archievements of his sons and daughters during the weck—H. L. Heibert, W. E. D. Stokes and James Heffernan.

BREAKING UP THE HORSE SHOW. MADISON SQUARE GARDEN ALMOST DESERTED A WEEK OF PRAYER AND EFFORT FOR THEIR

-AN AUCTION SALE TO FOLLOW. Madison Square Garden is an arid waste. In the moving the horses exhibited in the ring during the show week, and with such business-like expedition was the task accomplished that by midday every animal had left the building. Only those catalogued for sale this morning remained behind. When the horses had gone the hall was quickly dismantled of bare and cheerless aspect. Not a vestige of the show or anything connected with it is left, and the Garden has been handed over to the American Horse Ex-change to administer the death-stroke this morning.

As already stated, the American Horse Exchange will, at 11 this morning, open their great sale of exhibition horses in the Garden. show as they strode down to Thirty-fourth-st. ferry,

ANOTHER SCENE IN THE QUINN FARCE. OPPOSING DELEGATES START FOR THEIR GEN-

ERAL ASSEMBLY. Another act in the melodrama begun at Pythagora Hall last month, when the anti-Quinnites, in a night attack, captured the fort and kicked out the garrison of Quinnites, including Quinn himself, was played before Justice Gorman in the Essex Market Police Court yesterday. The anti-Quinnites indicted for felonious assault for that night's work were George W. Dunn, Henry A. Fitzgerald and Richard A. C. and yesterday they appeared in court, as did James E. Quinn and Bryan Kearney, of the opposing faction As the case proceeded it was seen that the evidence against the anti-Quinnites was conclusive, but at the same time the affair became awkward for Quinn and his friends as it was discovered that they were also liable to arrest and imprisonment, not only for the same offense, but for displaying a revolver and threatening life. The friends of the anti-Home Club faction at once took steps to produce warrants for the of the Master Workman and his friends, and things began to look mixed. The bewildered expression tha gradually spread over the faces of those most interested showed their bewildered state of mind.

There in the dim light of the court room stood the representatives of District Assembly 49's bloody factions, each not only defendant but plaintiff. There tions, each not only defendant but plaintiff. There was no way out of it but the one suggested by Justice German, and that was for each to withdraw their complaint, which was at last reluctantly done, and both factions departed in peace, but with blood in their eyes. The following decegates of District Assembly 49 started yesterday for Indianapolis, to attend the General Assembly of the Knights of Labor: From the anti-Home Club faction—William N. Keed, Charles Purcell, David J. Naughton and John Murphy; from the Quinn faction—William N. Keed, Charles Purcell, David J. Naughton and John Murphy; from the Quinn faction—James E. Quinn, Edward Kunze, Victor Drary and J. Collingwood.

IN MEMORY OF A POET-PASTOR.

A SERVICE AT THE CHURCH OF THE SEA AND LAND IN HONOR OF DR. EDWARD HOPPER

The memorial service to the Rev. Dr. Edward Hopper held last night at the Presbyterian Church of the Sea and Land, at Henry and Market sts., called out many facts which show the great changes that have taken place in that part of the city within the past two generations. The church is one of the three oldes the city, the two which are older being the Methdist church in John-st., and St. Paul's in Broadway. But little more than a generation ago, when East Broadway was a fashionable thoroughfare, there worshipped in this church many of the wealthiest and best-known men in the city, and it was then called an uptown church.

The Rev. Dr. T. L. Cuyler, who delivered the memorial address, mentioned these facts with many others, and before paying his elequent tribute to Dr. he spoke of the early history of the church He said that the ground on which the building stood was historical, for within a few steps was the place where Nathan Liale suffered martyrdom in the Revolution, and it was within a stone's throw that Robert Fulton had constructed his steamboat. Dr. Cuyler was himself pastor of the church from 1853 to 1860, and he feelingly referred to those years as the happiest and most success ful in his ministry. "The whole fate of my after life was decided here, too," he said: "In 1860 the character of the neighborhood he said: was rapidly changing, and there was a proposition to the matter by one majority. It was that vote which sent me across the Bridge to my present pastorate."

Dr. Hopper, who died April 23, had been pastor of the church nineteen years, and Dr. Cuyler spoke touchingly and eloquently of his whole-souled consecration, his great faith, his modesty, and his intellectuality. Dr. Hopper was born in New-York in 1816, and had had two other pastorates, at Greenville and at Sag Harbor. He wrote several books and a number of sailor hymn's. One of his hymns, "Jesus, Saviour, Pilot Me," Dr. Cuyler said he had not the slightest hesitation in pronouncing the grandest sailor hymn in the English language. It appears anonymously in the Calvary Selection. The first stanza is;

Jesus, Saviour, pilot me
Over life's tempestuous sea;
Unknown waves before me roll,
Hiding rock and treacherous sheal;
Chart and compass came from Theo
Jesus, Saviour, pilot me.

TO DETERMINE LONGITUDE IN MEXICO.

OFFICERS OF THE NAVY TO START ON WEDNES. DAY FOR THIS PURPOSE.

Lieutenants J. A. Norris and Charles Laird and Ensigns J. H. L. Halcombe and Spencer S. Wood, of the Navy, have been detailed by Commodore John G. Walker, Chief of the Bureau of Navigation at Washington, as a corps of observers to determine by telegraphic communi-cation the longitudes in Mexico and Central America. They are ordered to sail from here for Vera Cruz on Wednesday on the steamer Panama, of the Spanish Transatlantic Company. There has been some criticism against the Navy Department for sending these officers by a foreign line instead of by one of the steamers of the merican line which sail from this port for Havana and exican ports on every Saturday. Hy the latter they said go by the same steamer through to Vera Cruz, but going on the Spanish steamer they will have ferred at Havanz to another steamer of the same line, which goes to the Mexican ports.

The party will take with them the portable observatories needed for the expedition, tents for astronomical work and for shelter, and all instruments that may be required for the important work before them. The four officers will be divided into two parties. One will estabthe mouth of the Contracoaleas River. After the differences of longitude at these two stations are ured, that of Vera Cruz having been fixed in 1883, ther the Costracoaleas River party will move to another station further up, and so on through the interior and at points along the west coast of Mexico and Central America, until all the measurements have been made. All observations will be communicated and corrected by the graph, the Mexican and Central and South American Cable communication for their most communication for their most communication for their most capacity. Cable companies having granted permission for their use for this purpose. The corps of officers go at this season of the year because it is necessary to have clear and dry weather to make the observations, and the rainy season will have passed when they reach Mexico. It is ex-pected that the work will be completed by April, when the officers will return.

NEWS FROM THE SUBURBS.

ALDERMEN ARGUING WITH BLOWS. A lively set-to took place on Saturday night in the Board of Aldermen of Mount Vernon, between Alderman George Appel and Alderman Henry Esser, both of the Fourth Ward of that village. A discussion arose on the subject of the new sewer, now building P.M.—Sandy Hook 2:47 [Gov. Island. 3:18 Hell Gate. 5:10 [Gov. Island. 3:21 Hell Gate. 5:10] in the village at a cost of $250,000 to $300,000. From words the two Adermen came to bows. Appel accused Esser of signing an agreement with the contractor to connect his house, in Stevens-ave., with the main sewer in the street, at sixty cents a foot, the main sewer in the street, at sixty cents a foot, thereby tacitly accepting the work, as one of the Board, before the main sewer was completed and accepted by the chief engineer.

To this accusation Esser gave the lie direct, which was resented by Appel with a blow on the neck. Esser seized his umbrella and pounded Appel over the head with it until the other members of the Board jumped to their feet and separated the combatants. After peace had been restored, apologies were offered and the Board resumed business as if nothing had happened.

The possum fixed his teeth in Lathan's right hand and inflicted terrible gashes, only loosening its nold when Lathan dashed it against the tree. A FEW ASPECTS OF THE VICTORY.

BUSINESS WILL NOW GO BOOMING. From The Minneapolis Journal.

From The Minneapolis Journal.

You may look for a great revival of business now. There would have been more activity after election, no matter what the result might have been, but there are peculiar reasons, and good ones, why that revival should be more general and more pronounced and more permanent than if the free-trade party had been indorsed. Capital will more readily embark in all kinds of business enterprises, now that there is a positive assurance that the revenue policy of the Government is not to be radically changed.

GRAY WASN'T ON THE TICKET. Indianapolis dispatch to The St. Louis Globe-Demo crat.

Governor Gray was entirely serene in manner and philosophical in mood when he received the correspondent of "The Globe Democrat" in his office at the State House to-day. He had accepted the results and was willing, after a little redection to discuss the causes of defeat and to give his view of the proper policy for his party to pursue in regard to the tariff issue. To the inquiry, "What did it in Indiana!" he replied, rather sententiously: "Votes."

"Votes."

"But what made the votes!" he was asked.
The Governor looked out of the window thoughtfully, and this quest'on was added, suggestively:

"Was it money!"
Then came an answer, which showed the distinction between the statesman and the politician.

"No," the Governor said: "money was used to some extent. It always is in elections, but the purchasable element in Indiana is no larger than it is anywhere else."

GORMAN ON THE DEFUNCT MUGWUMPS. Quoted by The Baltimore American.

Quoted by The Baltimore American.

"What were the leading causes of defeat?" was asked the Senator.

He hesitated for a moment, and then said: "Pardon me, but I don't care to go into a discussion of the issues of the campaign at this time. There is nothing to be gained by doing so now. At the proper time I propose to confer with our party friends when we come together to prepare for future contests. That will be ample time for the discussion of that subject. I sincercly believe the doctrine of the Democratic party has the support of the majority of the people, and although we are defeated, we will come up smiling again four years hence.

"There is one thing this election has settled," said the Senator, with considerable emphasis, "and that is that this Government can be administered only through and with the assistance of parties."

GOOD-BY, SECTIONALISM:

GOOD-BY, SECTIONALISM! From The Albany Express.

New issues demand a new alignment; and the result in West Virginia gives promise that the change has begun. Apart from partisan considerations, it will be welcomed by every man who holds the best interests of his country at heart.

THE GREAT WEST DOES NOT HATE THE EAST. From The Boston Journal.

From The Boston Journal.

The Lemocrats mule a desperate endeavor to arouse new sectional feelings by arraying the West against the East. This was the sole idea upon which the Democratic campaign in the West and Northwest proceeded. Those sections were flooded with literature the aim of which was to show that the farmers of the West were taxed and burdened for the benefit of "robber barons" and "monopolisis" of the East. The manufacturing interests were represented as so many leaches, drawing the life-blood of the Nation. The East was painted as a usunious money-lender, exacting the last farthing from borrowers and prompted by the basest and most selfish motives. A leading member of the Cabinet, the Postmaster-General, was turned loose in Michigan and Wisconsin, that he might make the most vindictive assaults upon New England, and arouse against her the antipathies of the Western people. What is the result of this preaching of a gospel of sectional hate in the West I. A complete failure.
